

PERU MISSION

- Supports outreach through two congregations
- Multicultural ministry team works together with local leaders and US partners
- Ample opportunity for expansion in a city of more than 10 million

LCMS involvement in Peru began with flood relief in 1997. Ten years later, an 8.0 magnitude earthquake reinvigorated the LCMS's disaster response efforts and opened the door to something more.

La Misión Luterana del Perú became the precursor to a Peruvian-led national church body in 2010 and received NGO status in 2016. It functions as the epicenter for evangelistic outreach activities and presently supports two church plants. The congregation in the northern suburb of Los Olivos is outgrowing its cozy worship space and boasts significant numbers of youth and Venezuelan immigrants. A second congregation grew out of Castillo Fuerte, a mercy center at the heart of Lima's poverty-stricken La Victoria garment district. Here, children help connect their parents to the body of Christ.

A multicultural ministry team and a dedicated Peruvian staff are accountable to a partnership circle of US congregations and LCMS districts; hand-in-hand, they labor together to Spread the Gospel, Plant Lutheran Churches, and Show Mercy to the 10 million souls in Lima and beyond.
