

VDMA - TRANSLATION TEAM

- Equips the Latin American pastorate with Lutheran resources in their heart language
- Uses digital delivery to overcome logistical challenges
- Provides for ongoing translation of Lutheran theological works

VDMA is a Latin acronym that translates, "The Word of the Lord endures forever." During the Reformation, this motto united Lutherans in solidarity against their adversaries. Five hundred years later, the VDMA Project unites a different group of Lutherans: Spanish-speaking pastors and seminary students throughout Latin America and the Caribbean.

Until 2013, our Latin American pastors had a theological library of about five volumes. A more extensive library in Spanish was impossible due to the lack of translated Lutheran theological books.

The VDMA Project is a multifaceted initiative that identifies, translates, edits, and electronically distributes much-needed theological materials to hundreds of Spanish-speaking Lutheran pastors, seminarians and church workers across 21 countries.

As of October 2022, the Project has electronically delivered 40 Lutheran theological books. The translation of other significant Lutheran resources is also ongoing, with materials such as Good News magazine, devotions, educational curricula, disaster response materials, and theological articles. In January 2023, a quarterly daily devotion booklet for pastors and lay people alike was rolled out in eBook and pdf format.

The VDMA Project is a blessing to the Church as it equips pastors and seminarians with more and more tools to better serve their current and future congregations.
